BERKELEY WOMEN'S LAW JOURNAL

1992 Volume 7

COMMENTARY

The Control of Pregnancy and the Criminalization of Femaleness — 1
Michelle Oberman

ARTICLES

The Legal Implications of Gender Bias in Standardized Testing — 13
Katherine Connor
Ellen J. Vargyas

Using Literature in Law School: The Importance of Reading and Telling Tales — 90
Judy Scales-Trent

Questioning the Cultural and Gender-Based Assumptions of the Adversary System: Voices of Asian-American Law Students — 125
Carolyn Jin-Myung Oh

REVIEWS

Community and Identity in a Postmodern World — 181
Sheila Foster
Making All the Difference: Inclusion, Exclusion and American Law
By Martha Minow

Media Masala: Why Women's Control Matters — 194
Sarah Krakoff

•It is the policy of the Berkeley Women's Law Journal not to draw a distinction between student pieces and the work of scholars, practitioners, and community workers.